ASSEMBLY REJECTS DREW BILL AFTER DEBATE OF SEVEN

Sensational Speeches Made for and Against Measure, Grove L. Johnson Makes Impassioned Appeal for Enactment, Seizes Golden Haired Girl of Three, Holds Her Aloft and Declares He Is "In Favor of This" As Opposed to "The Japanese Menace to Our Institutions".

the bill drawn by A. M. Drew, barring aliens from ownership of land in Calffornia, by a vote of 48 to 28. The bill had been amended at the request of President Roosevelt and Secretary Root so that the clause applying it to Japanese only was eliminated, making it apply to all aliens, but the measure aroused such a storm of opposition that long before the debate was closed by Mr. Drew, it was apparent that the measure would be defeated. In substance, the objection to it was that it would drive at least a billion dollars of foreign capital out of the state and might jeopardize the present friendly commercial relations with Japanese.

The other side declared that the state was being over-run by thrifty Japanese who were gradually gaining an impregnable position as land owners and whose government was trying to dictate to California regarding legislation.

Two sensational speeches were made, one for and one against the Assemblyman Grove L. Johnson of Sacramento, ex-congress-man and author of four bills segregating Japanese in schools and residential districts and preventing aliens being members of corporations, male an impassioned appeal for theh enactment of the Drew bill. At his climax, he walked backward, from his seat to the lobby rail, and, seizing in his arms a golden haired girl of three, held her aloft and declared that he was favor of this" as opposed to "the Japanese menace to our institution."

Nathan C. Coglan of San Francisco, who was elected with the endorsement of the Union Labor party, opposed the Drew bill on the ground that it was in conflict with the state constitution so that it was inimical to union labor and that it was not favored by the na-tional administration, which he said was dealing with a delicate problem and should be supported by the people of California. Dramatically confronting Assemblyman Drew, he said: "If President Roosevelt should suddenly throw open the doors of this assembly chamber and laying his hand on your shoulder, should request, for reasons of state, that you withdraw this bill, you, Mr. Drew, as a patriotic citizen of the United States, would accede without a murmur.'

This sally was received with great

In reply, Mr. Drew, closing his argument for the bill, declared that he had received a letter from the president in which he stated that he was not opposed to bill as it had been amended at his request. In his open-ing remarks this forenoon, Drew made the statement that already there were in California, 40,000 Japanese, most of whom had belonged to the Japanese army, who could be mobilized at a moment's notice in case of hostilities, Richard Melrose of Anaheim, who had gathered statistics in opposition to the bill, declared there were not more than 25,000 Japanese in Califor-He quoted statistics compiled by the Asiatic Exclusion league to the effect that there were not more than 75 Japanese property owners in the Get Men in Spite of Restrictions.

Washington, Feb. 3.-That it has been possible for the various departments of the government to obtain secret service men in spite of restrictions placed on the secret service by the amendment to the sundry appropriation bill last year, is apparent from the testimony of Chief Wilkie made today before a sub-committee of the house on appropriations. Apparently, however, the outside use of the men was limited.

The testimony indicates that the amendment does not entirely restrict. Mr. Wilkle stated that one man was assigned from the secret service to the navy department to investigate the navy yard at Norfolk and another to investigate the Mexican revolution. Both men are carried in secret roles of the secret service, but are paid by the departments to which they have been Another case brought out is that of the assignment of two men to accompany President-elect Taft, for which there is no provision in law. Mr. Wil-kie claimed that the assignment in this instance was justified in that the secret service would probably be held responsible for Mr. Taft's safety if no measure for protection were taken.

Declaring that periods of financial and commercial depresssion increases counterfeiting, Chief Wilkie asked for an increase of $20,000 in the annual appropriation for this service. He declared that as a result of the limitations placed on the secret service, men have been dropped since July 1, some of them now being in the Sacramento, Feb. 3.—After a debate | ed of this bill will be rushed to passage | employ of the department of justice as special agents.

Mr. Wilkie advocated a central detective bureau in the department of justice, which would do the detective work for all of the government departments.

"I wish to record the fact," said Mr. Wilkie, "that no member of the secret service or any one acting for the secret service has ever shadowed a congressman or senator.

"At no time has the president or any administrative officer claimed that the restrictive legislation of the last session affected the secret service division office in the matter of suppressing counterfeiting or protecting the president. As a matter of fact, the limitations did not apply in the slightest degree to the normal functions of that service, and the claim that the secret service was not hampered in ooking after counterfeiters is admitted; but the assertion that the restriction was harmless to the governments nterest in the secret service. "The effect of the limitation was materially to circumscribe the field of usefulness in which the trained agents of the secret service had hitherto been advantageously employed. Under limitation it bed

sible to use these investigators in the class of the cases in which they have been conspicuously successful. The phraseology of the restrictive legislation is such that any person who was employed in, or under the secret service division during 1909 for even so short a period as an hour became disqualified for promotion or employment Departments of Government | in any branch of the government serexpenses would be paid from any appropriation in the sundry civil act.

The limitations tied the hands of the secretary of the treasury and made it impossible for him to continue the employment of these men in many cases of irregularity or wrong doing in those branches of the government, and the handling of obligations, securities and coins of the government.

"It is the contention of the executive branch of the government that it should be permitted to use the best means of investigating criminal cases; and when legislation is enacted that are in the party. deprives the executive branch of a particularly desirable and effective investigating force the government's interests which are the interests of the people, are baffled and the gainers are the evil doers who may escape detection and punishment.
"The question is, is it right or wise or proper specifically to discriminate against one particular division of the government's investigating cases, and prevent its employment might be used to great advantage? Its activities are not affected by the limitation.

"If the government is to act with full efficiency against crimes it must have some force of secret service agents, who can act against criminals anywhere, and the position of the ad-ministration is that it is against public policy to discriminate in favor of criminals by discriminating against the use of the secret service to detect and punish them.

INSPECTOR SMYTH DENIES STORY

Traveling Car Inspector Smyth of the Harriman system, called at Standard office Wednesday afternoon to say that he had been misrepresented by those quoted in several newspapers by the assertion that he had recommended the discharge of white men employed as car cleaners at Ogden and the employment of Japanese in their places. To a reporter Mr. Smyth "I want to go on record as denying the story that I ever even thought of recommending that white men be discharged in order to give work to any Japs.' My sentiments are quite the reverse, and in fact I have recommended on one occasion the dismissal of a crew of nine Japs and the employment of white men in their places. I don't know where the story publish-ed originated, but I wish the Standard would deny it, and state that there was no intention on the part of the company or any of its officials to discriminate in this way against white men. It has never been done in the past that I know of and will not be done in the future if I can prevent it. The story is an injustice to me and I want to be set right in the matter before the peo-GENERAL DEBATE ON AGRI
